

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides an AV information processing unit comprising an AV information recording unit for accumulating audio information, a search agent for accumulating a search parameter to define respective accumulated audio information, a microphone for inputting a search condition which defines the audio information required to be searched and for inputting example information for illustrating the audio information having a character indicated by the search condition when the inputted search condition is not included in the search parameter, a user learning agent for extracting the search parameter to define the inputted example information from the example information, a search agent for searching the audio information associated with the extracted search parameter and outputting it as the audio information associated with the search condition and an AV control agent.